DESCRIPTION

Hedge Maples are durable, tough trees which are relatively disease and insect free. They are adaptable to various sites, growing well even in dry, compacted soil and with urban conditions. They withstand heavy pruning and are frequently used in Europe as hedging.

Jade Patina® forms an oval to rounded crown, with dark green foliage that is more deeply lobed than the species. Extremely cold hardy, it exhibits exceptional tolerance to frost cracking.

The adaptability and smaller stature of this tree is perfect for use as street tree plantings and on commercial sites. It is nice for smaller residential gardens, making a lovely lawn specimen.
