DESCRIPTION

Japanese Stewartia is a graceful specimen tree offering significant appeal throughout each season.

This medium sized tree is generally multi-stemmed, with handsome dark green foliage which changes to red, orange and purple tones in fall. White camellia-like flowers are showy, with large yellow anthers, appearing early to mid summer. As this tree matures, its stunning bark exfoliates in thin plates, revealing smooth patches of grey, cream, light green and tan, providing excellent winter character.

Plant into moist, acidic soil supplemented with organic matter. Provide a bit of afternoon shade in very hot areas.

Japanese Stewartia is a beautiful specimen tree deserving of a prominent place in the garden.
