DESCRIPTION

Multi-season interest makes this shrub easy to integrate into the landscape! Creamy white flowers appear in early summer, followed by bluish-white fruit which persist into fall. The dark green foliage turns purple-red as the temperatures cool. This shrub also shines in the winter landscape with its bright red stems. Prune older stems out at ground level, as young stems produce more vivid color.

Bailey's Red Twig Dogwood is a useful shrub, perfect for shrub borders, foundation plantings, commercial sites and massed in large areas.
