DESCRIPTION

This large, wide-spreading shrub is one of the best for summer floral display! It brightens up shady gardens with copious amounts of white flowers, borne on large panicles that reach up to 12" long or more. This shrub is fantastic in flower, and equally beautiful when not, with its unique form and handsome dark green palmate leaves.

Bottlebrush Buckeye is multi-stemmed and suckers freely, so ample room should be given for development. Utilize within shrub borders or grouped into large areas. It is gorgeous as a single specimen plant in the shaded or partially shaded garden.
